

MARKETING GUIDELINES

Signature Line

Create a signature line which appears on ALL your emails and advertising material which includes your ebook title, web site link and a short description ie,

“Orb and Ghost Photos by Alec and Debbie Summers
Photographic proof that ghosts do exist.
Available from www.greywolfpublications.com and www.lulu.com.”

Web Site

If you have a web site, put all the details of your ebook in a prominent position. Include a link to www.greywolfpublications.com and www.lulu.com which takes the customer directly to your ebook. Include a link to two or three sample chapters so that the reader can get an idea of what the book is about. Also include a biography on yourself and a bit of background on why you wrote the book.

Blog

Put links to www.greywolfpublications.com and www.lulu.com on your blog which will take your readers to your ebook. Talk about your ebook and give away a short sample or serialise the sample so that people develop an interest in it.

Facebook/My Space/Bebo/LinkedIn/Twitter, etc

Use your social network page to publicise your ebook. Include a link to www.greywolfpublications.com and www.lulu.com so that people can order your ebook. If you don't already belong to at least one of these web sites, join one or two, you will be surprised how much fun they can be and how good they can be for business.

Reviews

Give reviews to books similar to yours on web sites such as www.amazon.com, www.greywolfpublications.com, etc. Ensure that you include a signature line at the bottom that gives your name/pseudonym, the title of your ebook and a link to www.greywolfpublications.com and www.lulu.com. Keep it to two or three lines otherwise people will not read it. Less is more (see above).

Newsletter/Ezine

Start your own newsletter or ezine to let people know about your ebook and your specialised subject. You can write the articles yourself and/or use free articles from web sites such as ezinearticles.com. Use lots of links to your book on www.greywolfpublications.com and www.lulu.com. Give permission to allow people to send the newsletter to others as long as they keep it intact.

Emails

Do not under any circumstances spam people you don't know. Only email people that you know or have signed up for newsletters/information about you and your ebooks.

Email your friends and family and let them know that you have a new ebook out. Include details about any earlier ebooks you may have had published. Make sure that you have a link to your ebook page on www.greywolfpublications.com.

Testimonials

When you buy something of the internet, particularly if it is of a similar nature to your ebook, leave a testimonial and give the web site permission to use it provided that they use your signature line. (see above).

Forums/Chat Groups/Yahoo/Ning Groups, etc

Join forums/chat groups/Yahoo/Ning groups, etc which cover a similar subject to your ebook. Whenever you leave a message, include your signature line (see above). Do not spam the group with advertising material, you could get banned. You can even start one of your own.

Web Sites

Whenever you visit a web site that you like, leave a message in their guestbook or email the owner to compliment them and give them permission to use it. Don't forget to include your signature line (see above).

Newsletters/E-zines, etc

When you read a good article in a newsletter or e-zine, write to the editor and let them know. Give them permission to publish your comments on their web site and in the publication as long as they include your signature line (see above).

Articles

Write articles on your subject and send them to relevant web sites, newsletters, e-zines, etc.

Also, add them to free article web sites such as www.ezinearticles.com. These sites allow other people to use your articles on their web sites and newsletters for free provided that they use your signature line (see above) and keep the article complete. You may find that the article finds its way around the world and it is a wonderful way to get free advertising.